HENRY AND IWILEI

"AS NOW CONDUCTED (BY HENRY) THE BUSINESS IS NOT ONLY OPEN AND SHAMELESS, BUT IS CONDUCTED IN SUCH A WHOLESALE AND ORGANIZED MANNER AS TO MAKE IT A PUBLIC SCANDAL, AND A PUBLIC DISGRACE."

The effort is being made in this campaign to make it appear that there is a moral issue involved, and that William Henry represents all that is good and excellent. Henry's supporters entirely overlook his Iwilei record; the fact that he announced that he could not enforce the existing laws against prostitution, and would therefore make prostitution a police institution and regulate it himself, and this in the clearest violation of the Edmund's act and without even the justification of the "act to mitigate," which has been declared by the courts invalid. They forget that he it was who issued orders which forced the business into quarters that he resorted to a subterfuge in the matter of the pay warrant for Paul Smith who was the police officer in charge of the place.

A Senate committee investigated the matter and brought in a majority and a minority reports. The two were almost identical as to the disgraceful facts. One of the reports added an appendix of which the following is a portion. In the face of this report, which Henry has never denied, where can he stand on the "moral issue?"

The resolution upon which this report is based does not involve the question of the policy which should be adopted toward prostitution in this Territory; but the evidence produced before the committee and the wide publicity given to the subject through the publication of such evidence seems to us to require that some declaration of policy should be made, and that such policy should be radically different from that now in force.

The present policy is precisely the same that was discredited and abandoned several years ago.

The objections to it are, briefly:

1. It is so thoroughly under police control and protection that it is practically a government institution. There is no department of the government which has as complete supervision and control of its employees as the police department has of the prostitutes of Iwilei. Irrespective of the morality or otherwise of such recognition and protection, it is discreditable to the government to become practically an active partner in such a business.

As a mere matter of policy, the government should at once terminate a connection with the business which cannot but have the effect of discrediting it, both at home and abroad.

2. Not only is the government recognizing and protecting the carrying on of the business of prostitution but it is also authorizing and compelling the issue of certificates of health to the women in question, which certificates the reports filed herewith show are absolutely unreliable. They are worse than unreliable. They are an advertisement by the government, through its recognized agent, the doctor, that any one may consort with the holder of the certificate without danger of contracting disease; whereas in fact, the inspection on which such certificates are based is such a farce that there is no certainty that disease is not present.

The examination as carried on at present is for all practical purposes, a bogus one, and instead of being a protection from disease is more likely to be the means of furling the unwary to their destruction under the false belief that the certificate insures safety.

The system of official examination and certificate of health should be immediately abolished.

3. As now conducted, the business is not only open and shameless, but is conducted in such a wholesale and organized manner as to make it not only a public scandal, but such a public disgrace as would be inconceivable were it not in existence.

Most of the buildings occupied by the women at Iwilei are small disconnected cottages; but there are two establishments where the number of women is so great and the transactions so public that the year practically public show places. One of these, the old stockade, is shielded from view from the public street by a building and a board fence. The other, the premises of the Fidelity Insurance Company, referred to in the report herewith, is so open to the public street that the conduct and procedure of the inmates can be seen a hundred feet away. The thirty odd inmates of the premises are to all intents and purposes plying their trade in the public street and, until this committee began its investigations they were doing so in the constant presence and with the full approval of a regularly salaried police officer.

These organized, wholesale, public and open shows should be immediately and permanently closed.

4. The smaller establishments should be compelled to keep their doors closed and the inmates out of sight from the public street.

The inmates now sit in their doorways, immediately clothed, and accost the passers by, inviting them to enter. Even if there is to be regulation, such conduct as this is wholly demoralizing and vicious.

All publicity should be rigorously prohibited and the prohibition strictly enforced.

5. The women engaged in the business should be kept out of residence districts and main thoroughfares. This can easily be done by adopting the Chicago method of putting a policeman in front of premises which are being used for unlawful purposes and keeping him there until the occupants are driven away, as they will speedily be under such circumstances, for no man will patronize an establishment which is under the direct surveillance of the police, with the chances of a raid being made while he is in the house.

Prostitution can not be ended by the methods that we have indicated; but its evils will be far less than under the present system which not only does not accomplish the protection from disease, which is its sole excuse, but is directly responsible for spreading disease by giving out false guarantees of good health and thereby inducing the patronage of those who might otherwise be restrained through fear of disease.

The methods which we have suggested will also relieve us of the stigma which we earned at the time of the stockade regime, and which we cannot afford to again attack to the name of Hawaii.

THE SCHOOLS AT LAHAINA

FLAG DAY EXERCISES AND THE CLOSING CEREMONIES WERE ALL EXTREMELY INTERESTING.

LAHAINA, June 17.—At Lahaina school on Flag Day the programme recommended by the Board of Education was carried out with gratifying success under the direction of Principal Henry Dickenson. The commencement exercises of this school took place on Friday evening, June 15, at the Waihee church. There were 19 numbers of songs and recitations—followed by the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Hawaii Ponoi."

The summer term of the kindergarten closed on June 15. The popular principal, Miss N. A. Holden, has resigned her position, and will soon return to her former home at Charlotte, Mich.
